Day 2 (Tuesday): Slang Breakdown

Theme: Break down a popular slang phrase — show the literal meaning vs. actual meaning, with examples.

Natasha — “Tá to”

Field	Content
Video Prompt	Natasha animated, using hand gestures, breaking down “Tá to” on screen
Script	“Dominican slang time! ‘TÁ TO’ — literally ‘está todo’ (it’s all). But it means ‘it’s all good’ or ‘we’re set.’ Someone asks if you’re coming to the party? ‘Tá to.’ Food is ready? ‘Tá to.’ It’s the Dominican ‘bet.’ 🇩🇪🇵🇪”
Caption	The Dominican version of “BET” 🇩🇪🇵🇪🔥 #DominicanSlang #TaTo #SpanishSlang #ConnectMeAI

Carlos — “Neta”

Field	Content
Video Prompt	Carlos in street setting, casual, explaining “neta” with on-screen text
Script	“Mexican slang: NETA. It means ‘for real’ or ‘truth.’ ‘Neta?’ — really? ‘La neta sí’ — honestly yes. ‘Neta que no’ — seriously no. It’s how Mexicans say ‘no cap.’ 🇲🇪”
Caption	Mexican “no cap” = NETA 🇲🇪🔥 #MexicanSlang #Neta #SpanishSlang #ConnectMeAI

Valentina — “Parcero/Parcera”

Field	Content
Video Prompt	Valentina explaining parcero with friends in background
Script	“Colombian slang: PARCERO (or PARCE for short). It means friend, buddy, bro. ‘Qué más parce?’ — what’s up bro? ‘Ella es mi parcera’ — she’s my girl/friend. Every Colombian says this 50 times a day. 🇨🇴”
Caption	How Colombians say “BRO” 🇨🇴👉 #ColombianSlang #Parcero #SpanishSlang #ConnectMeAI

Thierry — “C’est ouf”

Field	Content
Video Prompt	Thierry in Paris street, explaining verlan (French backwards slang)
Script	“French slang: C’EST OUF. ‘Ouf’ is ‘fou’ (crazy) backwards — it’s called verlan. ‘C’est ouf ce film’ — this movie is crazy. French people flip words backwards as slang. Mind blown? 🇫🇷”
Caption	French people speak BACKWARDS?! 🇫🇷🤪 #FrenchSlang #Verlan #Ouf #ConnectMeAI

Bianca — “Mano”

Field	Content
Video Prompt	Bianca on beach, casual, explaining “mano”
Script	“Brazilian slang: MANO. Short for ‘irmão’ (brother). It means bro, dude. ‘E aí mano!’ — hey bro! ‘Mano, que loucura’ — dude, that’s crazy. São Paulo people say this every sentence. 🇧🇷”
Caption	Brazilian “BRO” = MANO 🇧🇷👉 #BrazilianSlang #Mano #Portuguese #ConnectMeAI

Kenji — “マジ (maji)”

Field	Content
Video Prompt	Kenji reacting dramatically, showing maji in different contexts
Script	“Japanese slang: MAJI (マジ). It means ‘seriously?!’ or ‘for real.’ ‘Maji de?!’ — are you serious?! ‘Maji yabai’ — seriously crazy. It’s the Japanese ‘no way.’ You’ll hear it in every anime. 🇯🇵”
Caption	Japanese “NO WAY” = マジ 🇯🇵 🤪 #JapaneseSlang #Maji #Anime #ConnectMeAI

Priya — “Yaar”

Field	Content
Video Prompt	Priya with friends, showing how “yaar” is used everywhere
Script	“Hindi slang: YAAR (यार). It means friend, buddy, dude. ‘Yaar, sun na’ — dude, listen. ‘Kya yaar!’ — come on man! Indians use this in literally every conversation. 🇮🇳”
Caption	How Indians say “DUDE” 🇮🇳 🤪 #HindiSlang #Yaar #Hindi #ConnectMeAI

Lena — “Krass”

Field	Content
Video Prompt	Lena reacting to things, showing “krass” in different contexts
Script	“German slang: KRASS. It means extreme, crazy, intense — good OR bad. ‘Krass, das war gut!’ — wow, that was good! ‘Das ist echt krass’ — that’s really intense. Young Germans say this constantly. 🇩🇪”
Caption	German “THAT’S CRAZY” = KRASS 🇩🇪 🤪 #GermanSlang #Krass #Deutsch #ConnectMeAI

Arjun — “Semma”

Field	Content
Video Prompt	Arjun enthusiastic, showing “semma” with food/movie clips
Script	“Tamil slang: SEMMA (செம்ம). It means super, amazing, fire. ‘Semma food da!’ — amazing food! ‘Semma movie’ — great movie. If something is fire in Tamil Nadu, it’s SEMMA. 🇮🇳”
Caption	Tamil “FIRE” = SEMMA 🇮🇳🔥 #TamilSlang #Semma #Tamil #ConnectMeAI

Mei — “666”

Field	Content
Video Prompt	Mei showing phone screen with 666 comments, explaining internet slang
Script	“Chinese internet slang: 666 (liù liù liù). It sounds like 溜 (liù) meaning smooth/skilled. When Chinese people comment ‘666’ it means ‘you’re amazing!’ Like saying ‘GG’ but for being impressed. 🇨🇳”
Caption	Why Chinese people type 666 everywhere 🇨🇳🔥 #ChineseSlang #666 #Mandarin #ConnectMeAI

Kofi — “Chale”

Field	Content
Video Prompt	Kofi in Accra market, explaining “chale” with locals
Script	“Ghanaian slang: CHALE. It can mean ‘wow,’ ‘oh no,’ or just ‘dude’ depending on tone. ‘Chale, this food is good!’ ‘Chale...’ (disappointed). It’s Ghana’s most versatile word. 🇬🇳”
Caption	Ghana’s most versatile word: CHALE 🇬🇳😄 #GhanaSlang #Chale #Twi #ConnectMeAI

Fatima — “Daba”

Field	Content
Video Prompt	Fatima in medina, explaining “daba” casually
Script	“Darija slang: DABA (دبا). It means ‘now’ or ‘right now.’ ‘Daba daba!’ — right now! ‘Ana jay daba’ — I’m coming now. Moroccans use this 100 times a day. Simple but essential. 🇲🇴”
Caption	Moroccan Arabic essential: DABA 🇲🇴🕒 #Darija #MoroccanSlang #Arabic #ConnectMeAI

Day 3 (Wednesday): Culture Tip

Theme: Share a cultural insight that language learners need to know — something you’d only learn by living there.

Quick Prompts (all influencers):

Influencer	Topic	Key Point
Natasha	Dominican greeting etiquette	"In DR, you ALWAYS greet everyone when entering a room. Even strangers. 'Buenas!' is enough. Not greeting = extremely rude."
Carlos	Mexican 'ahorita' time	"'Ahorita' technically means 'right now' but actually means anywhere from 5 minutes to NEVER. Welcome to Mexican time."
Valentina	Colombian coffee culture	"In Colombia, you NEVER refuse coffee. Someone offers you tinto (black coffee)? You say yes. It's a sign of respect."
Thierry	French 'la bise' rules	"The cheek kiss greeting varies by region: 2 in Paris, 3 in south, 4 in some areas. Getting it wrong = awkward."
Bianca	Brazilian personal space	"Brazilians stand CLOSE when talking. If you step back, they step forward. It's not rude — it's warmth."
Kenji	Japanese business card exchange	"In Japan, you receive a business card with BOTH hands, study it, then place it carefully. Never shove it in your pocket."
Priya	Indian head wobble	"The Indian head wobble isn't yes or no — it means 'I understand' or 'I'm listening.' Context is everything."
Lena	German punctuality	"In Germany, 'on time' means 5 minutes EARLY. Arriving at the exact time = you're late. Being actually late = unforgivable."
Arjun	Tamil Nadu food etiquette	"In Tamil Nadu, eating with your LEFT hand is a big no. Always use your right hand. Left hand = impure."
Mei	Chinese 'face' concept	"In China, 'giving face' (给面子) means showing respect publicly. Never criticize someone in front of others."
Kofi	Ghanaian elder respect	"In Ghana, you ALWAYS greet elders first. Use your right hand for handshakes. Left hand = disrespectful."
Fatima	Moroccan hospitality	"In Morocco, a host will insist you eat MORE even when full. Saying no 3 times is expected before they accept."

Day 4 (Thursday): Pronunciation Challenge

Theme: A tricky word or sound that learners always get wrong. Show mouth position, slow-mo pronunciation.

Quick Prompts:

Influencer	Word/Sound	Challenge
Natasha	Rolling the “R” in “perro”	“Dominican R is different — we often drop it or turn it into an L. ‘Puelta’ instead of ‘puerta’”
Carlos	“Rr” vs “R”	“Single R vs double RR. ‘Pero’ (but) vs ‘Perro’ (dog). One letter = completely different word”
Valentina	The Colombian “J”	“Our J is softer than Mexican Spanish. ‘Jajaja’ sounds different in every country”
Thierry	The French “R”	“The French R comes from your throat, not your tongue. It’s like gargling gently”
Bianca	“Ão” nasal sound	“The -ão ending is the hardest sound in Portuguese. ‘Não’ ‘coração’ ‘irmão’ — practice this!”
Kenji	“Tsu” (つ)	“English speakers always say ‘su’ but it’s ‘TSU’ — like ‘tsunami’ without the ‘nami’”
Priya	Retroflex “ड” vs “ढ”	“Hindi has sounds English doesn’t have. Touch your tongue to the roof for ड, teeth for ढ”
Lena	“Ch” in “ich” vs “ach”	“Two different sounds! ‘Ich’ = soft (like a cat hissing). ‘Ach’ = hard (from your throat)”
Arjun	“ழ” (zha)	“Tamil has a unique sound ழ that exists in NO other language. Curl your tongue way back”
Mei	Tones (mā má mǎ mà)	“Same sound, 4 tones, 4 meanings: mother, hemp, horse, scold. Tone = everything in Chinese”
Kofi	“ɔ̃” vowel	“Twi has vowels English doesn’t. ɔ̃ is between ‘oh’ and ‘aw’ — open your mouth wider”
Fatima	“ع” (ain)	“The Arabic ع comes from deep in your throat. No English equivalent. It takes practice!”

Day 5 (Friday): Common Mistakes

Theme: Mistakes that learners make that are funny, embarrassing, or confusing to native speakers.

Quick Prompts:

Influencer	Mistake	Explanation
Natasha	“Estoy caliente”	“You meant ‘I’m hot (temperature)’ but you just said ‘I’m horny.’ Say ‘Tengo calor’ instead!”
Carlos	“Estoy embarazada”	“You meant ‘I’m embarrassed’ but you said ‘I’m pregnant.’ Say ‘Tengo vergüenza’”
Valentina	“Coger el bus”	“In Spain this means ‘catch the bus.’ In Colombia... it means something VERY different. Say ‘tomar el bus’”
Thierry	“Je suis excité”	“You meant ‘I’m excited’ but in French this means ‘I’m aroused.’ Say ‘Je suis enthousiaste’”
Bianca	“Puxar” vs “Empurrar”	“Every tourist pushes doors marked ‘PUXE’ (pull). And pulls doors marked ‘EMPURRE’ (push)”
Kenji	Saying “anata” to everyone	“Don’t call everyone ‘anata’ (you). In Japanese, use their NAME + san. ‘Anata’ is only for your spouse”
Priya	“Main garam hoon”	“You meant ‘I’m warm’ but ‘garam’ also means ‘angry’ or ‘hot-tempered.’ Context matters!”
Lena	“Ich bin heiß”	“You meant ‘I’m hot (weather)’ but you said ‘I’m sexy.’ Say ‘Mir ist heiß’ (to me it is hot)”
Arjun	Mixing up “naan” and “naan”	“In Tamil, ‘நான்’ (naan) means ‘I/me.’ The bread is different! Tone and context matter”
Mei	Wrong tone on “mǎi” vs “mài”	“mǎi (买) = buy. mài (卖) = sell. Wrong tone and you’re selling when you want to buy!”
Kofi	“Me ho ye” without context	“Saying ‘me ho ye’ (I’m fine) when someone asks about your food. They asked about the FOOD!”
Fatima	“Ana zwin” (masculine)	“If you’re a woman saying ‘I’m beautiful,’ it’s ‘ana zwina’ not ‘ana zwin.’ Gender matters in Darija”

Day 6 (Saturday): Mini Conversation

Theme: A realistic 30-60 second conversation showing how to handle a common situation (ordering food, asking directions, meeting someone).

Scenario: Ordering at a local restaurant/café

Each influencer acts out BOTH sides of the conversation (waiter + customer), showing the natural flow with slang and informal speech that textbooks don't teach.

Influencer	Scenario	Key Phrases
Natasha	Ordering at a Dominican comedor	“Dame un mangú con los tres golpes” / “¿Con jugo o morir soñando?”
Carlos	Ordering tacos in CDMX	“Deme unos de pastor con todo” / “¿Le pongo salsa verde o roja?”
Valentina	Ordering at a Colombian bakery	“Regálame un pandebono y un tinto” / “¿Para llevar o para acá?”
Thierry	Ordering at a Parisian café	“Je vais prendre un café crème, s’il vous plaît” / “Et avec ceci?”
Bianca	Ordering açaí in Rio	“Me vê um açaí médio com banana e granola” / “Quer leite condensado?”
Kenji	Ordering ramen in Tokyo	“すみません、味噌ラーメンお願いします” / “麺の硬さは?”
Priya	Ordering chai at a tapri	“Bhaiya, ek cutting chai dena” / “Biscuit bhi doon?”
Lena	Ordering at a Berlin Imbiss	“Einmal Döner mit alles, bitte” / “Scharf oder ohne?”
Arjun	Ordering dosa in Chennai	“Anna, oru masala dosa kudunga” / “Sambar extra venum?”
Mei	Ordering at a Chinese restaurant	“老板，来一碗牛肉面” / “要辣的还是不辣的?”
Kofi	Ordering at a chop bar	“Mepa wo kyew, fufu ne aponkye nkwana” / “Wo pɛ sɛ yɛ de pepper pii?”
Fatima	Ordering at a Moroccan café	“3tini wahd atay b na3na3” / “Bghiti shi haja khra?”

Day 7 (Sunday): Q&A / Story Time

Theme: Longer-form content (2-3 min) answering common questions or telling a cultural story. Best for YouTube.

Topics:

Influencer	Topic	Format
Natasha	"Why Dominican Spanish sounds so different"	Story about DR history + African/Taino influence
Carlos	"Why Mexicans say 'mande' instead of 'qué'"	Cultural history of respect in Mexican Spanish
Valentina	"The story behind 'parcero'"	Origin from 'aparcero' (partner in farming)
Thierry	"Why French has so many silent letters"	Brief history of French language evolution
Bianca	"Why Brazilian Portuguese ≠ Portugal Portuguese"	Colonial history + indigenous/African influence
Kenji	"Why Japanese has 3 writing systems"	Kanji, Hiragana, Katakana explained simply
Priya	"Why Hindi has so many English words"	British colonial influence on modern Hindi
Lena	"Why German words are so long"	Compound word system explained with funny examples
Arjun	"Why Tamil is one of the oldest languages"	2000+ year literary history
Mei	"Why Chinese doesn't have an alphabet"	Character system explained + how to learn
Kofi	"Why Twi has so many proverbs"	Oral tradition and wisdom culture
Fatima	"Why Darija is so different from standard Arabic"	Berber + French + Spanish influence
